Consultants assigned to schools to improve mental health of military children

Bob Mathews

Family and MWR Marketing Publicity Specialist

Military Family Life Consultants, each a certified mental health professional, have been assigned to five Liberty County schools whose enrollment includes a large number of military-connected students.

MFLCs also have been assigned to the three Department of Defense Education Activity on-post elementary schools for the 2010-2011 school year, as they were last year.

David Smith, Youth Education Support Services Director, said MFLCs add "an additional layer of support for students in these schools" as well as lessening the burden of already-busy school counselors and staff in meeting the students' needs.

"MFLCs not only help out with students who might be having some concerns, or anxiety issues with a deployed parent and may need some intervention support, but are a two-fold resource for the school staff itself," Smith said.

"We find there is a good percentage of military-connected spouses who are teachers as well, and they might have a deployed spouse. So the MFLCs are support for those teachers and a resource for the school in general to provide education and help for kids who might be having some difficulties."

Smith said that written permission from the parent must be given before any contact will be made or counseling conducted with students. The counseling is free and no records are kept except in a duty-to-warn situation (such as domestic/Family violence, child abuse or threats to self or others).

The MFLCs began their work at the schools Aug. 9 and are busy blending in, getting to know the students, teachers and staff as they get the word out that they are there to help in any way possible. They'll be seen at football games, at special events, sometimes when the students arrive in the morning, and on other occasions.

"They want the students, staff and teachers to know that they are available and that they want to help," Smith said.

MFLCs can provide support to military-connected students on topics including, but not limited to identifying feelings, problem-solving, bullying, conflict resolution, self-esteem, coping with deployment and reunification, transition and moving, sibling/parental relationships, managing anger, time management, separation from parent(s) and divorce.

Military-connected parents are invited to talk with an MFLC about issues their child might be having at school and to request any related support, Smith said.

MFLCs are assigned are Bradwell Institute, Liberty County High School, Midway Middle School, Lewis Frasier Middle School and Snelson Golden Middle School. Fort Stewart DoDEA schools to which they are assigned are Brittin Elementary, Diamond Elementary and Kessler Elementary.

Military-connected students attending Liberty County elementary schools in which an MFLC is not serving on-site are invited to contact an MFLC. To speak to with an MFLC, contact the participating school your child attends; or, for more information, call the School Liaison Office at 912-767-6533.

Fort Stewart-Hunter Army Airfield hosted the Fall Executive Session of the Regional Information Sharing Forum at the Hunter Club, Sept. 9, and at Club Stewart, Sept. 10. Community leaders from the surrounding counties, cities and school districts joined installation leaders in partnership to share information about the ongoing deployment of the 3rd Infantry Division and upcoming events occurring in their respective areas.

Third Infantry Division Commanding General Maj. Gen. Tony Cucolo led off the both events via video teleconference from Iraq. He briefed attendees about the 3rd Combat Aviation's Brigade's support to the emergency flood relief in Pakistan, and about ongoing 3rd ID support in Iraq and Afghanistan.

Major General Cucolo said although the mission continued there, Marne Soldiers would start returning in late September and October with the 3rd Heavy Brigade Combat Team; the Spartans of 2nd HBCT by the end of October and through November, and the 3rd CAB and 1st HBCT by December. Major General Cucolo said he was extremely proud of the performance of Soldiers and Family Members during the deployment, and thanked community members for their continued support.

Third Infantry Division Deputy Commanding General-Rear Brig. Gen. Jeffrey Phillips; Fort Stewart-Hunter Army Airfield Garrison Commander Col. Kevin Milton; and Hunter Garrison Commander Lt. Col. Jose L. Aguilar; also noted how returning Soldiers would go through reintegration orientation with 10 half days that included, among other subjects, medical, dental, financial and resiliency awareness counseling.

Additional briefings at the RISF included information about the Prisoner of War/Missing in Action ceremony scheduled for 6 p.m. at the Fort Stewart-Hunter Army Airfield Museum, Sept. 17, which the community was invited to attend; upcoming holiday events and other impending installation events.

Community members are encouraged to learn more about these subjects and more online at www.stewart.army.mil.

Preparing for pregnancy during deployments

Marguerite Cleveland

3/7 Inf. FRG Advisor

It's 2 a.m. and you are wakened by a sharp pain. You realize you are in labor, your husband is deployed and your two-year-old is peacefully sleeping down the hall. What do you do?

The 3rd Battalion, 7th Infantry Regiment, 4th Infantry Brigade Combat Team Family Readiness Group held a Pregnancy Support Meeting opened to all expectant spouses in the 4th IBCT, Sept. 9. The purpose of the meeting was to help our pregnant spouses answer their questions. New Parent Support and the Department of Obstetrics and Gynecology sent representatives who provided support and information.

"We had a situation where a spouse called needing a ride home from the hospital in Savannah," said Tonya Imus, 3/7 Inf. Family Readiness Support Assistant. "She just had a baby and had nothing ready including the required car seat to bring the baby home. Her plan was her husband was going to be home from Iraq [for the birth], and she didn't anticipate premature labor."

For more than one third of the unit, this is the first deployment for the Soldiers and their spouses.

Female Led Zeppelin tribute band re-visits COB Speicher

CONTINGENCY OPERATING BASE SPEICHER, Iraq – Hammer of the Broads, an all-female tribute to Led Zeppelin, sent a special message to the troops of Contingency Operating Base Speicher, Iraq, hours before they performed at the Main Gym, Sept. 8.

"Take care of yourself, get the job done, and come back safe," said Dyna Shirasaki, the lead singer who emulates Zeppelin's singer, Plant.

The Los Angeles-based group began the second stop of their tour with a meet-and-greet at the Division Main Headquarters, where they remembered some of their fans.

"We meet a lot of Soldiers that have seen us in Afghanistan, Bosnia, and Iraq," said Tina Wood, or "Page." "It's such a trip!"

This is not the group's first time in Iraq. All four musicians were here earlier in the year as the band known as Thund 'Her' Struck, a tribute to AC/DC. Nikki Lane Taylor (Bonham), who is not originally part of Thund 'Her' Struck, filled in as drummer for that tour.

The crew's motto, when playing AC/DC, is "Let there be rock." That motto resonated through the Led Zeppelin-fan-filled gymnasium as the first note struck a chord. The crowd rocked to hits like "Stairway to Heaven" and "Heartbreaker."

"Led Zeppelin is the best rock and roll band ever," said Maj. Jim Riely, a G-5 planner with the Division Special Troops Battalion, 3rd Infantry Division. "They have a song for every mood and every occasion."

"THE YOUNG VICTORIA," REVIEWED

Sasha McBrayer
The Frontline Contributor

"The Young Victoria" is a lovely portrait of the real life British Queen whose reign lasted longer than any other female in history. The film stars Emily Blunt ("The Devil Wears Prada," "Wolfman") as the feisty young royal who falls in love with Prince Albert, as portrayed by Rupert Friend. Much of the film is historically accurate, but I'll admit I had difficulty following some of the political aspects.

What I did enjoy were the actor's performances, their accents (Friend is British but sounds Germanic, as he should), and especially the romantic thread. Period romances are my favorite kind. Victoria's love story is, thankfully, a happy one. I recently saw 1986's "Lady Jane," another historical piece about real British royals, and was devastated by the tragic ending. Jane Grey there is portrayed by a young Helena Bonham Carter (no stranger to band is Carey Elwes, who is right up there on my list of favorite period romantic leads, joined by Ralf Fiennes and, of course, Colin Firth.

If you enjoy period romances, you'll definitely want to rent "The Young Victoria," but it isn't quite as dramatic as gems like "A Room with a View," also starring Helena Bonham Carter, Jane Austen's stories, and "Wuthering Heights."

Sgt. Ry Norris
Tina Wood, guitarist for Hammer of the Broads, performs at Contingency Operating Base Speicher, Iraq, Sept. 8.

The crowd filled the stadium, including some who counted down the days until the concert.

"When I heard they were coming and I was working security, I was stoked about it," said Sgt. Jason Keller, a squad leader with the 108th Military Police Company.

The group encouraged the crowd to let loose and sing. Soldiers ran on stage to play air guitars alongside the rockers. A fan presented the bassist, Andrea Zermeno, with a large pair of men's drawers with "I (heart) U, P.S. these are brand new," across the back, in tan camouflage, of course.

"It was absolutely fantastic!" said Rob Gutkowski, a counter-improvised explosive device section personnel. "These guys are so good that they are worth going to see. We're fortunate to get it for free."

The road leading to this tour was a long one. The band formed late last year after Moby Chick, another tribute Led Zeppelin band, disbanded. Practice came about once a month, when the musicians had spare time from their full-time jobs. Schedules were cleared so they could perform for the troops.

"For as much as these guys come here and sacrifice, it's the least we can do," said Shirasaki.

"There were these firefighters who just recently lost one of their guys," said Wood of a previous tour. "They told us 'We were having such a hard time with it and the fact that you girls came out here lifted our spirits.'"

While the troops and those in attendance enjoyed more than an hour of Led Zeppelin music, the artists received something in return — gratitude.

"All the fatigue and aches, you forget about all that when you realize what you're doing," said Wood.

"It's hard to realize that for someone like me, who's a total goofball, can make a difference [especially] when I hear 'I forgot about where I was for a little bit,'" a misty-eyed Zermeno said.

"That is the greatest compliment of all," Nikki finished.

"Readiness is one of the fundamental tasks of the Army," said Maj. Ernesto Cardenas, MD, Chief, Dept. of OB/GYN. "However, Soldier readiness can, at times, overshadow Family readiness during deployments. We are helping patients utilize all available resources early on to decrease anxiety associated with having a baby while dad is deployed. It is my experience that formulating a Family care plan during contractions is never a good idea."

In addition to speaking to the ladies on readiness,

Maj. Cardenas provided each one a five-page draft pregnancy plan, and the spouses provided suggestions to improve the document. The goal is to use the pregnancy plan at Winn Army Community Hospital to screen patients whose sponsors are deployed, and to help them plan for a safe delivery with or without their husbands present.

Major Cardenas is available to visit Family Readiness Groups. He can be reached at ernesto.cardenas@us.army.mil.

Chaplain (Maj.) Valiant D. Lyte, Sr.
HHC U.S. Army Garrison/1st HBCT, 3rd ID-Rear

Uplifting Spirit can help bring "resiliency" to returning Soldiers, their spouses, and loved ones.

The following quote is from the New International Bible: Galatians 5:22-23, 25-26.

"But when the Holy Spirit controls our lives, he will yield this kind of fruit in us: love, joy, peace, patience, kindness, goodness, faithfulness, gentleness and self-control. Against such things there is no law... If we are living now by the Holy Spirit's power, let us follow the Holy Spirit's leading in every part of our lives. Then we won't need to look for honors and popularity, which lead to jealousy and hard feelings."

Over the next several months, Soldiers will be redeploying and reuniting with their spouses, loved ones, and with the Fort Stewart-Hunter Army Airfield community. Reintegration briefings, Soldier Resource Clerks and Post-Resiliency Training will be conducted.

Rear and forward chaplains, chaplain assistants, community support agencies and Family Readiness Support Assistants will consolidate their time, efforts and resources to returning Soldiers and reuniting Families, renew, restore, rebuild and re-strengthen their relationships and marriages during "Transitioning Home Challenges."

Another element that can help make your "transition home" adjustments is your "Spiritual and Moral Resiliency Program." The quote from Galatians 5: 22-23, 25-26 can be an aid to the 4 "Rs" mentioned above.

Returning home can be rough and challenging, but if you apply the following ingredients, I believe it will make for an easier transition.

Love is the glue that will help you through post-reuniting difficulties. Joy is something that you have even when you don't feel good about it. Joy is not based on your feelings, but on your faith to work through unhappy and emotional situations the best way you can as a couple, or if you are single, as an individual with good values and morals.

If you examine the rest of these spiritual virtues, you will rediscover that they are there to help strengthen your spiritual and moral relationship, with God, the Creator, spouses, Families and loved ones. Patience, peace, kindness, goodness, faithfulness, gentleness and self-control will help you bend together without breaking apart and stand side-by-side without falling or faltering.

You, the single Soldier and the married Soldier, will become fruitful in "Renewing, Restoring, Rebuilding and Re-strengthening" your relationships. Step-by-step, you will allow yourselves to reunite and recommit to each other. "Together You stand, Divided You Fall!" True "Oneness" helps build good "Character!"

To help you continue to rebound and rebuild, check with your rear-support chaplain and Family Life chaplain for Strong Bonds Resiliency Training Retreat opportunities at 912-767-7028 / 1820/ 8541/ 8065/7492.

Amicalola Falls: Let the rushing water wash the cobwebs from your mind

Commentary by Randy Murray
Fort Stewart Public Affairs

In a few weeks, 3rd Infantry Division Soldiers will begin redeploying to Fort Stewart-Hunter Army Airfield, and reunited Families will be looking for places to go for quality time.

Our host state offers some great, Family-affordable things to do at its 50-plus state parks and historic sites, especially parks like Amicalola Falls State Park, which has a 56-room luxurious lodge, 20 “Hike Inn” rooms, 24 RV and primitive campsites and 14 cottages. Amicalola is a 829-acre park, located in the mountains near Dawsonville, Ga.

Amicalola is a Cherokee Indian word, meaning “tumbling waters,” which appropriately describes the 726-foot falls, the tallest cascading waterfall east of the Mississippi River. According to the park’s Web site, Amicalola is one of Georgia’s most popular state parks. A weekend stay at the lodge or one of the cottages will easily explain why it’s so popular.

All 56 rooms in the lodge, which sits atop a mountain ridgeline, face the mountains. Lodge guests can spend their mornings and late afternoons sitting on the bottom floor porch, sipping coffee and taking in the beauty of the rolling green hills in front of them.

Mealtime at the lodge’s Maple Restaurant is special, too. A buffet breakfast, lunch and supper has guests waiting in line, not just for the great food but also for a chance to get the preferred seating by the windows, which face the mountains.

Those whose leisure time involves strenuous activity will love Amicalola. There are not only miles of trails taking you to the falls, but an 8 1/2-mile trail that leads to Springer Mountain, the southern tip of the famous 2,135-mile long Appalachian Trail. Fisherman will want to try the trout fishing in the stocked pond located at the bottom of the falls. Those less inclined to walk up the side of the mountain can take a shorter, ¼-mile long trail that’s paved with recycled tires and has a gentle slope such that even wheel-chaired visitors can gain access to the falls.

Picnic and playground areas surround the park’s Visitor Center, which includes nature displays, live animals and a gift shop.

If you’re planning to visit Amicalola, please be aware the peak tourist season is in the fall when the leaves are at their brightest. Traffic will be heavy and chances of getting a room at the lodge or one of the cottages will not be good. Local residents recommend visiting the park in the off season, after the leaves begin to fall, if only because the falls can be seen more clearly from farther away. Special events are planned at the park for Thanksgiving weekend through Christmas. There’s also the nearby town of Dahlonega, site of America’s first gold rush.

For more information about Amicalola Falls State Park, go to www.gastateparks.org/AmicalolaFalls or call 706-265-4703. For lodge reservations, call 800-573-9656.

Teaching children to travel safely to and from school

Kim Whyte

Family Enrichment Program Educator

As an exciting new school year begins, many children will be riding bicycles, walking to bus stops as well as walking to and from school. It is important for parents to teach and give children opportunities to practice traveling safety skills.

1. Teach your children to stay aware of their surroundings and observe all traffic rules in order to safely share the roads and sidewalks with others.

2. Instruct your children to travel with a friend, always stay in well-lit areas, never take shortcuts, and never go into isolated areas.

3. Even though there may be safety in numbers, young children must be supervised to ensure their safe arrival to and from school, especially if they must take isolated routes anytime during the day or in darkness.

4. Walk the route to and from school with your children pointing out landmarks and safe places to go if they're being followed or need help. Make the walk to and from school a "teachable moment" and chance to put their skills to the test. Make a map with your children showing acceptable routes to and from school.

5. If your children wait for a bus, wait with them or make arrangements for supervision at the bus stop.

6. If anyone bothers your children or makes them feel scared, uncomfortable, or confused, teach your children to trust their feelings; they should immediately get away from that person and tell a trusted adult.

7. If an adult approaches your children for help or directions, children should be taught that they do not need to be polite and help. They should not stop and immediately move away. Remind your children that grownups needing help should not ask children; they should ask other adults.

8. Instruct your children to never approach a vehicle or accept money or gifts from anyone unless you have told them it is okay to accept in each and every instance.

9. Instruct your children to leave items and clothing with their name on them at home. If anyone calls out their name, teach them to not be fooled or confused. Teach your children about the tricks someone may try to use to confuse them, engage them in conversation or get them to accompany them.

10. Ensure current and accurate emergency contact information is on file for your children at their school. Make sure the school's departure procedures include only allowing your child to leave with someone you have authorized to pick them up.
